Dear Esteemed Colleagues,

Pregnancy is a phase of life that is cherished, though we all know that risk is inherent to all pregnancies, most pregnancies end up happily. A few mothers have a greater risk to either their life or the baby's life. Managing such high-risk pregnancies has always been challenging and stressful.

The High-Risk Obstetric Unit of SKS Hospital, with a well-supported team of Obstetricians, Neonatologists, Intensivists, and specialists in every field, has made managing very high-risk obstetric women happen.

This 2nd CME provides a plethora of academics covering the topics with recent advances and problem-based solutions, and is an effort to help every obstetrician learn from the experts in the field of high-risk obstetrics in an evidence-based manner, as well as enhance the obstetric skills of managing critical situations.

Best Regards,
